

CHANGING THE FACE OF ESG REPORTING

 ESG is increasingly dominating the Board's thinking and ultimately the brand

Much has been written about how our environment, community and business will benefit from ESG initiatives. Organisations can lead profitably with purpose.

But where to start? Standards, rules and greenwashing jargon to consider when shaping the ESG journey can feel pretty overwhelming.

The ESG value chain – from positioning where to play and how to win, to reporting and impact analysis, seems stuck at “BEGIN” (remember the board game, Monopoly?). Consistent, transparent, flexible reporting and analysis is still a complex and time-consuming manual process that sees employees scrambling at the 11th hour to accurately capture data and keep it up to date.

This makes it difficult to appeal to investors, who are painfully aware of the ever-changing ESG requirements of different regulatory bodies and who remain concerned about the quality of the output. Top-line growth can easily take a hit if there's even the slightest hint that your company isn't living up to its duty to move along with the times.

New technologies are essential to fostering positive economic growth and protecting the environment. There's an app for everything, so why not for this?

A scalable, flexible reporting solution is vital to developing insights to an organisation's ESG progress.

Enter Ethica (ethicaesg.com), our bespoke digital ESG monitoring and reporting system. Our years of experience assisting businesses in developing and implementing realistic, achievable ESG strategies and plans have enabled us to develop this easy-to-use platform to help you navigate changing ESG expectations and reporting requirements in a simpler and faster way. We understand the needs and, frankly, the frustrations that arise from a lack of options in business, having sat in executive C-Suite roles ourselves.

Ethica allows you to make informed business decisions and to generate sustainability reports at the click of a button. Built-in controls ensure that your data is always accurate and verifiable, and the fact that Ethica is not only customizable but also affordable means that you can get going with our base offering in as little as three weeks. We'll be with you every step of your sustainability journey to help you get ahead of the game by giving you practical, actionable advice and detailed guidance.

Some time for learning, little time for experimenting.

Envision Advisory Services (EAS) (envisionas.com) is a unique team of seasoned engineering professionals, strategy, operations, management and finance consultants. With over 100 years of combined experience within globally recognised advisory firms, we've seen what it takes to successfully advise businesses both large and small in a diverse range of industries. Let us partner with you to reach your sustainability goals and unlock your business' hidden potential.

Time to accelerate from "BEGIN" to "SUCCESS"!

Contact our ESG specialist team today at info@envisionas.com to get the ball rolling, and view the Ethica demo at ethicaesg.com